Network Management System

Data Collection: Gathers and provides network device metrics and status details through SNMP queries.

MIB Support: Offers access to Management Information Bases (MIBs) that structure management data.

SNMP Versions Supported: Compatible with SNMPv1, SNMPv2c, and SNMPv3, offering varied levels of functionality and security.

SNMP Traps and Notifications: Gathers and provides network device metrics and status details through SNMP queries.

AgentX Protocol: Supports the AgentX protocol, enabling other agents to extend the functionality of the SNMP daemon.

Configuration via Configuration File: Configurable via the `snmpd.conf` file, where you can define parameters such as SNMP community strings, access controls, and trap destinations.

Access Control: Includes basic access control mechanisms to determine which SNMP requests are permitted or denied.

User Authentication and Privacy (SNMPv3): Offers enhanced security with SNMPv3, including user authentication and encryption for secure data transmission.

Custom MIBs: Supports the integration and use of custom MIBs to provide additional, device-specific management data.

System Information: Delivers basic system details, including system name, description, and contact information.

Performance Metrics: Provides performance metrics like CPU load, memory usage, and network statistics.

Logging: Logs SNMP requests and errors, aiding in troubleshooting and monitoring the SNMP daemon's activity.

Agent Configuration: Allows configuration of SNMP agent settings, such as listening addresses and ports.

Trap Handling: Capable of processing incoming SNMP traps from other agents or devices.

Community Strings (SNMPv1/v2c): Utilizes community strings to manage access and permissions for SNMP queries and commands.
